A more direct path to a job

SFEJ is an education for economists, lawyers and social scientists in the county of Stockholm and situated in central Södermalm. You will study in groups, and other students will have a similar background and education to yours. Together you establish contact networks in and outside of school.

With us you will get:

- intensive education for Economists, Lawyers and Social Scientists with a foreign background
- intensive Swedish with a professional focus
- visits to, for example, Stockholm Chamber of Commerce, the Riksbank (Sweden's central bank), courts of law, and the Parliament
- to participate in a mentoring programme together with JUSEK (the union).

Requirements for applying:

- You need at least three years of documented higher education in economics, law or social science subjects.
- You must have been in Sweden less than three years.
- You must know English at level English 6.

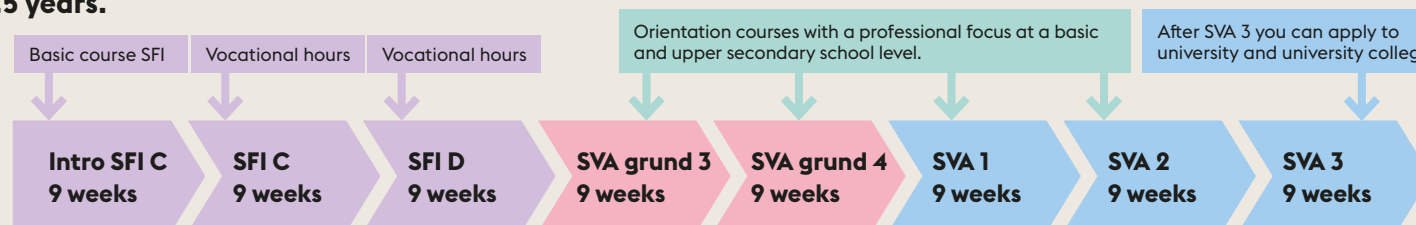

This is how you apply:

- Admissions take place at Vuxenutbildningscentrum in Stockholm, Rosenlundsgatan 52.
- Send your foreign education certificates from university or university college to Universitets- och högskolerådet (UHR).
- Contact Universitets- och högskolerådet to have your degree and certificates evaluated.
- You can begin your application to SIFA while awaiting an answer from Universitets- och högskolerådet.
- Application forms to Intensive Swedish for Economists, Lawyers and Social Scientists are found at www.sifa.stockholm.se/ansokan.

The education is at most 1.5 years.

Without prior knowledge of Swedish, your education as a beginner starts at level C. If you already know some Swedish, you start at the level that is right for you. You will study in cohesive groups. After you have completed a course you will directly start at the next level.

Having graduated from SIFA, you meet entry requirements for university and university college.
